NEW PASTOR WILL CONTINUE SERVICES

Rev. Merrit Earl, of Congress Heights Church, will Address Street Em-ploves Every Thursday.

Anacostia Tent, No. 1, Knights of the Macabees, met last night in the local Masonic Hall. Applications for membership were submitted for consideration, and reports were made of sick and death benefits paid. Herman Willer, commander, conducted the meeting. Funeral services for Zelates Cornwell, a retired gardener, living near Alabama Avenue, Congress Heights, whose death occurred a few days ago at Providence Hospital, in the eighty-sixth year of his age, were held yesterday from the Anacostia Methodist Episcopal Church, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. G. Leroy White, officiated. The pallbearers were selected from the members of the congregation, and interment was in Oak Hill Cemetery. Mr. Cornwell was at one time a member of the firm of Cornwell & West, gardeners, but retired several years ago.

Rev. Merrit Earl, pastor of Congress Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, is to carry on the Thursday noonday services at the Washington Steel and Ordnance Company, begun by the former pastor of the Anacostia Methodist Church, Rev. Samuel W. Griffin. The Y. M. C. A. of Washington also is interested and frequently provides speakers.

The committees of the Anacostia Citizens' Association appointed by President Charles E. Burr have been requested to begin work at once on the various matters of general interest to the community. It is desired that every chairman present a written report at each monthly meeting.

A euchar party was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Upton S. Howser, 1616 Minnesota Avenue, yesterday. The party was conducted for the benefit of St. Teresa's Church in Anacostia. About forty prizes were awarded.

PEACE TREE PLANTED.

Representative Bartholdt Sets Out Strippling on Capitol Grounds.

Representative Bartholdt, who will be president of the American Peace Congress to be held at St. Louis, May 1, 2, and 3, yesterday planted a peace tree on the Capitol grounds.

Those present at the ceremony were a number of members of Congress and Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood, a director of the American Peace Society and Secretary A. D. Cail, of the society. The last peace tree was planted in Washington by Gov. Crittenden, of Ohio, about fifty years ago, but was done away with the Grant Monument. The tree planted yesterday takes the place of the old one.

At yesterday's ceremony a peace flag, an American flag with a white border around it, was unfurled and a streamer with the words "Peace Among All Nations."

COMPANIES DEFY COMMISSION.

Several Refuse to Follow Law Demanding Data.

Several of the smaller corporations of the District have declined to comply with the request of the Public Utilities Commission for certain data concerning their business, it was learned yesterday. They are not affected by the public utilities law.

Corporation Counsel E. H. Thomas will make an investigation to determine whether the corporations are common carriers.

None of the larger corporations have declined to comply with the requests of the commission for information, which commonly concerns lists of officers and stockholders, copies of charters or licenses under which they operate, and similar data.

Health Committee Meets Tonight.

The meeting of the committee on laws of the Board of Trade scheduled for yesterday has been indefinitely postponed. The public health committee will meet tonight in the rooms of the Board of Trade.

TAKOMA TO NAME COUNCIL.

E. F. Blodgett, H. E. Rogers, and J. H. Van Houten Candidates.

Three councilmen to serve terms of two years each will be elected in Takoma Park, Md., Monday, May 5. The polls will be kept open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening.

Those whose terms expire on that date are E. F. Blodgett, H. E. Rogers, and J. H. Van Houten. All three of these men will be candidates for re-election. The judges of the election will be J. W. Shadle, S. E. McNeil, and L. M. Mooers.

Love of Child Led Boy to Kill S. Elgin, Ill., April 21.—Love of an eleven-year-old girl today was believed to have been the motive for the murder of Mrs. Maud Sleep and her two children by Hermann Copes, the fourteen-year-old confessed slayer. The girl is Ida Sleep, daughter of the murdered woman.

"Mrs. Sleep saw me kissing Ida and she told me she would whip me," said the boy in his cell in the Elgin jail today. "I didn't like Mrs. Sleep, but I did like Ida awfully much."

DOROTHY'S PLAYMATES

Feature of the Cosmos Theater Bill This Week

One of the most delightful little musical child fantasies ever presented in vaudeville has come from the circuit of the big houses of the north to the Cosmos Theater this week. It is entitled "Dorothy's Playmates," but its name only indicates in the faintest manner what it is. The plot, too, does not cut much figure, but a scenic setting that might have come from a child's dream of fairyland and with music that is really beautiful, it serves to introduce one by one the child's playmates, the dog, the cat, the parrot, and some that the child only dreams of or sees afar, such as the elephant, the goblins, and the jack-o'-lanterns.

Everything is suggestive of fairyland, even the tower of the tall house which bears the face of a gigantic cat whose eyes, first one and then another, flame up and die out in a weird and creepy way.

Little Dorothy has lost her cat, "Pinkie." There never was such a cat as Pinkie, because the Pinkie that is lost in the play is really a young man who has learned all the movements and even the stealthy tread of the cat and impersonates her feline majesty with vivid realism.

Four little Buster Browns come on with lighted lanterns to hunt for Pinkie. They talk about it and they sing about it, and they even dance about it gracefully and prettily. And as they disappear on comes Pinkie for the center of the stage for a while. Then follows

"Snarleyow," a very natural looking shaggy dog that would quickly win its way into the confidence of any child. Then, in turn, comes the great big parrot, "Carrots," who has much to imitate in the way of a real green and red polly from Ireland; then "Teddy," the big yellowish brown bear, who really seems very harmless, and at last "The Cat Chorus," in which four girls dressed as big cats execute a choral song and dance.

But the real gem of the performance comes with "The Tale of Jack-o'-Lantern," when first four big goblins bob along the wall and on to the stage. Then everywhere may be seen lighted jack-o'-lanterns, and all of them seemingly singing the big finale.

It is a spectacle that will not only make the eyes of the youngsters dance with joy, but make the grown-ups sit up and take notice as well. The production was built for the special entertainment of the children by Joseph Hart, who is known far and wide as Foxy Grandpa. The music, very pretty music and some of it quite pretentious, none of it commonplace, was composed by Edwin G. Kendal.

The stage pictures are suggestive of "Alice in Wonderland." It is a veritable dream of pleasure for the little ones, and it is splendidly presented by nine clever performers, including a charming little Dorothy, who sings delightfully and four equally charming Buster Brown girls.

We have given the subject the most exhaustive consideration. From all the good makes we have selected the best—those that are constructed upon the most scientific principles —applied with common sense.

There's more than mere refrigeration at stake. Family health rests upon hygienic care of the foodstuffs—and your Refrigerator or Ice Chest should be "safe" as well as serviceable.

You'll find by every test that the Alaska Refrigerator
Co. and the Rhinelander Refrigerator Co. have solved the problem to perfection. These two makes stand out conspicuously as the very best. They're recognized the country over as the very last word in hygienic refrigeration, as applied to the family needs.

Hardwood Cases—Opalite Glass or Porcelain Cases—
